SUBJECT: Charles William Robb

Dear Larry:

We have had communication for quite some time concerning the above-named individual. You indicated in a letter that it was very possible that there was a substantial morals charge against this individual and that he would be tried in either Tuolumne or Stanislaus Counties. We would like to know if this legal action has proceeded and if the final outcome has been reached. It would be most helpful to know if he was convicted and the sentencing that was imposed.

Please help us to complete this file so we may refuse registration and close the case.

Thank you for your help.

SUBJECT: Charles William Robb

Dear Larry:

Last year we had some communication concerning the above-named individual. We received newspaper clippings with a headline of Sacramento from the "Davis Enterprise" in Davis, California, indicating that this individual had been arrested for child molestation. Since quite some time has passed, we wonder if this case has been settled and the outcome.

We would like to have the outcome of the legal action so that we may place this in our file and have a complete record. This will then close this case, since you have sent everything else that we need for placing Mr. Robb on our Confidential file.

Thank you for your help in protecting the youth of America. Let me know if we may of help in any other way.

nia averaged 15.3 percent on the ACLU scale. Those figures compare with Zschau's Democratic rival, U.S. Sen. Alan Cranston.

But Zschau's voting record on economic issues received a 100 percent rating on the U.S. Chamber of Commerce voting scale, while even arch-conservative U.S. Sen. Jesse Helms of North Carolina rated only 89 percent on the Chamber scale.

Zschau also ranks as one of Congress' most conservative Republi-ment to the federal constitution and the Gramm-Rudman bill to force reductions in the federal deficit, opposed the farm subsidy bill and voted yes on most conservative efforts to cut spending on domestic programs and increase tax incentives and tax breaks for business expansion.

But on social and environmental issues, Zschau lines up with liberals most of the time.

He supports the Equal Rights Amendment, opposes a constituan inerecuce program. Similarly, Zschau says he strongly supports Reagan's Strategic Defense Initiative, the so-called "Space Wars" space defense program he voted to cut Reagan's appropriation requests because he said scientific research project could absorb the rate of growth produced by Reagan in a cost-effective manner.

Science Center again offers its summer mini-course program

The Davis Science Center is once again offering a series of free mini-courses and short fee-paying courses for children, designed partly to combat the "what is there to do?" summer syndrome.

Laura and Phelan Fretz will offer classes about lakes and how they work, eco-treks for preschoolers and a course that is all about birds, from their prehistoric beginnings to today's exotic species.

Sara Fretz, curator for natural science at the San Antonio Museum in Texas, expects to offer children different aspects of nature in classes as diverse as "Small and Spineless," about insects and invertebrates, to "Ecology is About Home," an introduction to the make-up of an ecological community.

Georgianna Wanjiru plans to use the UC Davis Arboretum as a backdrop for her class on ecology, while Bob Cropper will be peering with students into the "Wonder World of Microscopic Life."

For youngsters wishing to stay inside for a while, Leanne Moore-Branham will offer two different levels of "Math for Girls and Other Problem Solvers" designed to teach new and exciting ways to use math via the Lawrence Hall of Science problem-solving techniques.

The Science Center will also be offering a wide selection of mini-courses taught by various teachers. Classes offered include Bats, Myths and Realities; Animal Senses; Bones and Skeletons; and Day of the Dinosaur.

The hour-long mini-courses will be offered several times during the session. They are designed to expose youngsters for short periods of time to many aspects of science.

The Science Center staff plans to close this year's program with a vision and illusion fair in late August.

This year's courses are filling up fast. Those interested in registering are asked to do so in person as soon as possible at the Science Center. Participants are asked to limit themselves to two free mini-courses until June 23.

Local man arrested in molestation case

A Davis man was arrested Saturday morning on suspicion of molesting an 11-year-old boy at a Tuolumne County campground five years ago when he was a Boy Scout camp counselor.

It was the second time this year that Charles William Robb, 27, of 1313 Sequoia Place, has been charged with molesting boys during camping trips.

On May 1, Robb was arrested by Sacramento County authorities on four felony counts of molesting boys between 8 and 11 years old. The alleged incidents occurred during an overnight YMCA activity in Sacramento in March.

Robb remained free on bail after booking on the Sacramento charges. A $20,000 warrant for his arrest on the Tuolumne County charges was issued recently and Robb was arrested by Davis police at his home Saturday morning. He was again released after posting bail.

The Tuolumne incident reportedly occurred in 1981 when Robb was a camp counselor for the Boy Scouts of America in Merced County, according to Tuolumne County sheriff's investigator Tom Kaufmann.

The Merced Boy Scout troop came to Camp John Mensinger in the high country of Tuolumne County for a weeklong camp, Kaufmann said. The victim, an 11-year-old camper, reported two incidents to camp authorities but because molestation was less understood then, Robb was not prosecuted, although he was asked to resign from his position as counselor.

After the Sacramento cases came to light, Tuolumne County authorities sought a warrant for his arrest on two counts of lewd and lascivious acts with a child under the age of 14 for the 1981 incidents, Kaufmann said.

According to reports, Robb has been accused of similar crimes in Atwater, Turlock and Modesto. Authorities say he would resign from one scouting troop, move to a new community and join another troop after each accusation came to light.

Arrestment in Tuolumne County has been set for early next month, Kaufmann said.

Davis man accused of molestations

SACRAMENTO — A Davis youth worker has been accused of four counts of sexually molesting children during an overnight activity at a YMCA gymnasium, authorities reported.

Charles William Robb, 27, of 1313 Sequoia Place, was freed on $25,000 bail Thursday after a Sacramento County Superior Court hearing. Robb, an assistant program director with the YMCA and a volunteer Boy Scout leader, is accused of molestation involving five boys ranging in age from 9 to 16 years old.

Davis police aided Sacramento County authorities in Robb's arrest Thursday afternoon.

Robb was charged with performing a lewd and lascivious act on a 9-year-old boy; molesting an 11-year-old boy; and two counts of molesting and annoying children, The Associated Press reported.

Authorities said the alleged incidents occurred March 14 at an "overnighter" activity at the Almond Avenue YMCA facility in suburban Orangevale.

According to a 41-page investigative report submitted to the court, molestation allegations involving Robb — but no formal charges — had also been raised when he worked with troops in Atwater, Turlock and Modesto. According to the report, Robb was asked to move several troops, then would join another troop elsewhere, the AP said.

A court date has not yet been set.
